A conversation on generative artificial intelligence and its foreseeable development, with Jon Stokes, co-founder and chief product officer at Symbolic AI, and Jennifer Strong, audio journalist and executive producer of Shift, moderated by Daive Bolchini, executive associate dean, Luddy School of Informatics, Indiana University

The surprising rapid development of generative artificial intelligence has sparked excitement and generated concerns about possible negative impacts. It has also raised a more fundamental question about what, if any, distinguishes us from the machines we have created. Is there an absolute, qualitative difference between human and artificial Intelligence?
